

HAS RUSSIA AN IDEA OF PEACE?

The Czar's Cabinet, It Is Said, Is Holding An Extraordinary Session Today.

HAS LINEVITCH REACHED SAFETY?

Russian Reports Say He Has His Main Army Now Out
Of Danger, And Will Defend Harbin Stubbornly.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

London, March 23.—The Central News says the meeting of the Russian cabinet in extraordinary session is to be held at noon for the purpose of considering proposals which have been made for intervention by the powers to end the war. Which power has taken the initiative in the movement is not disclosed.

The Evening Standard says it is SERGIUS WITTE.

(Russian Regarded as Most Influential of All Czar's Ministers.)

authoritatively informed that the Central News statement that the Russian cabinet discussed the question of mediation is not true.

Reports issued
Baron Hayashi of the Japanese embassy received the following, dated the 21st: "Our detachment, which has been following the enemy, has entered Chantui, twenty miles north of Kaiyuan. The enemy, in large bodies, are treating in disorder toward the northeast along the railway."

From Other Side
St. Petersburg, March 23.—It is now claimed the main Russian army escaped. There is no further news of serious fighting, although it is reported a desultory conflict occurred at Changchun, a hundred miles north of the Ling, where Linevitch is preparing to delay the Japanese advance while he arranges for the defense of Harbin.

Hear From Linevitch
St. Petersburg, March 23.—Linevitch reports under date of the 23d he had no news of any encounters with the Japanese on March 21st.

Armies Exchange Shots.
For two days previous to Monday there had been skirmishing, accompanied by artillery exchanges, between the Japanese on the Grand Trade route, west of the railroad, and the Russians screening the retreat, showing that they are in constant contact.

With the crossing of the Sungari river at Chantui protected, many military men here believe that Gen. Linevitch, while prepared to withdraw to Harbin, will attempt to hold the line from Kuanchangshui to Kirin, so as to control the rich Sungari valley as a source of supply for the army. A Japanese advance to Kirin would be equivalent to the isolation of Vladivostok.

At the admiralty it is strongly intimated that Admiral Rojestvensky will effect a junction with Admiral Nebogatoff within ten days and then proceed to meet Admiral Togo.

Shout for Peace.

There was a spontaneous peace demonstration in the Nevsky Prospect Wednesday afternoon, 500 persons shouting "Down with war!"

The party within the government which is urging the emperor to indicate to Japan Russia's willingness to end the war if a reasonable basis can be reached has been greatly encouraged the last few days, and an actual pacific proposal may be just ahead.

The subject has occupied much of the attention of the conferences at Tsarskoe-Selo. Certain grand dukes, supported by Gen. Sakharoff, the minister of war, Admiral Avellan, the head of the admiralty, and what is known as the war party, are still bitterly opposed to the idea of peace under present circumstances, but with the exception of the ministers of war and marine the emperor's ministers, backed by M. Witte, solidly favor peace.

French influences in the same direction are now being supported by German opinion. The rumor that Emperor William had tendered his good offices now seems to be confirmed.

Anarchy Reigns.
In connection with the peasant revolt there have been 500 arrests in the Dvinsk district, where, besides sacking and burning property and compelling the owners to seek refuge in the towns, the rioters are killing cattle and felling trees.

In the Kieff district it is reported that forged documents have reached the local authorities, ordering the sale of state lands to peasants at absurdly low prices. These documents are believed to have been circulated by revolutionists in order to promote a revolt of peasants.

KAISER FAVORS USING THE BIG STICK AS A WEAPON

The German Ruler Would Have Bayonets
Bright And The Cannon Ready For Use.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Bremen, March 23.—Emperor William on the eve of his departure for his cruise in the Mediterranean declared at a banquet here that he had vowed never to strike for world mastery, but to keep them ready.

The occasion was the unveiling of a monument to Emperor Frederick. The ceremony was followed by a banquet in the town hall, which shelters the model of the admiral's ship of the first German fleet that had been sold under the auctioneer's hammer.

Emperor William said that when he was a youth he stood by that model and felt deeply enraged at the disgrace done the German flag. He then had sworn an oath of fidelity to the flag, and that when he became the head of the government he would "do everything possible to let bayonets and cannon rest, but to keep them ready, so that they could be used in the event of a war."

Doesn't Want World Mastery.
"I vowed," the emperor continued, "never to strike for world mastery. The world empire that I then dreamed of was to create for the German empire on all sides the most absolute confidence as a quiet, honest and peaceable neighbor. I have vowed that if ever the time comes when his story shall speak of a German world power or a Hohenzollern world power this should not be based upon conquest, but come about through a mutual striving of nations after common purposes.

"After much has been done internally in a military way the next thing must be the arming of ourselves at sea. Every German battleship is a new guarantee for the peace of the world, and the less ready will our foes be to attack us and the more valuable will we become as an ally.

Would Avoid Discord.
"The duty of youth is to avoid every discord. Give them the conviction that God has great things in store for the German people. We are the salt of the earth, but must prove worthy of being so. Therefore our youth must learn to deny themselves what is not good for them. Then we will be regarded on all sides with esteem and love as a trustworthy people.

"With all my heart I hope that the golden peace will continue to be preserved for us."

After the banquet Emperor William and Prince Henry took the train for Cuxhaven, where they were received by Herr Ballin, director of the Hamburg-American line, and Capt. von Gramme. The emperor went on board the steamer Hamburg, which has been especially refitted for his voyage through the Mediterranean.

Mr. Pacific—See here, Governor, I do wish you'd get that pick unchained and hurry up and dig that ditch. I want to get through and meet Miss Atlantic.

The Gain From Others.
A man is strong in proportion to the quantity, the quality and the variety of forces which he absorbs from others. He is a power in proportion to the extent of his contact, socially, mentally and morally, with his kind, and a weakness just in proportion as he cuts himself off from others.

STATE NOTES

EXPLOSION KILLS SIX IN MINE IN INDIANA

Woodwork Catches Fire, Which, in Connection With Firedamp, Renders Rescue Work Perilous.

Princeton, Ind., March 23.—A windy shot in the Princeton coal mine caused a fearful explosion Wednesday afternoon, killing six men and injuring three others. Many more are entombed in the mine and in spite of the work of searching parties it is feared they will die before the rescuers can reach them as part of the mine is on fire and the firedamp renders the work of rescuers hazardous.

The dead so far removed are: William Biggs, Hudson Weatherly; Albert Geiser, Ed. Geiser, Harry Taggart, George Dill.

Injured: John Dill, George Cole, William Jones.

The cause of the disaster is not known, save that it resulted from a powder explosion. The miners were making their blasts previous to leaving the mine and the greater part of the miners had ascended. Whether it was a premature shot or an overcharge is not known now, or is it known who fired the shot.

The news reached the city about 4 o'clock and within a short time fifty women, relatives of the miners, surrounded the mouth of the shaft and anxiously awaited each ascension of the cage. The miners worked heroically and a number of them were overcome by the foul air which filled the mine. The explosion wrecked a portion of the mine and the supporting timbers were hurled in every direction. The supports gone, the slate roof gave way in many places, and the rescuers were in constant danger from this source.

MUCH WORK YET ON THE LISTS

Legislature Cannot Adjourn As Yet Because Of Work To Be Finished Up.

EXCITING DEBATES ON THE BILLS

Gossip Of Possible Legislation That May Be Accomplished Before Adjournment Really Comes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 23.—The assembly voted to repeal the vessel taxation law of 1901 and to provide that all ships belonging to residents of Wisconsin be taxed as personal property. Assemblyman J. Scott offered a resolution that a bill be formulated to dispose of the million or more dollars received from the federal government for the civil war claims. The assembly killed the Aldridge social democratic bill to abolish all exclusive franchises and advanced the Thayer bill for local option in residence districts.

The Senate
The senate advanced the state census bill with an appropriation of $20,000, the secretary of state to direct the work. It killed eleven bills, among them one to place the supreme court clerk on a salary instead of fees, and one to refund the money paid to the state under the peddlers' license law, which the supreme court knocked out. The senate discussed the Dunn pocket ballot bill, recommended by the committee for passage, but took no action.

Are Tired Out
The members are beginning to exhibit a disposition to get through with the work and go home. Many of them are substantial citizens who have other business in life than making laws for a little glory and $500 a session, and whose time in their own business is far more valuable than the small remuneration paid by the state. The interests of not a few of the members, particularly the lawyers who have good legal practices, have suffered greatly by reason of their absence from home while in Madison grinding at the legislative mill.

Irvine's Plan
The first resolution to appear, suggesting the date of final adjournment, was from Assemblyman Irvine, setting the date as April 28. This date is apparently impossible, unless the legislature rush through a vast amount of business with insufficient consideration. The most important matters proposed in bills have not yet been disposed of. The Warner state civil service measure is still in no semblance of shape for being reported from the committee, and there seems to be a determination, a foregone conclusion, that this is too far advanced a matter for the legislature to settle at this time, but that it ought to be passed on as a legacy to the next legislature. The railroad commission bill will be reported in its revised and diluted form soon, but will even then require much time for consideration and debate. None of the large appropriation bills have been acted upon and the utter failure of a mortgage taxation law passed by the last legislature is still on the statute books unrepaid. If the legislature intends to get home by the middle of June it will have to be strenuous.

FIVE DROWNED ON FLOODED STREAM

First Series of Deaths on the Monongahela River This Morning.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 23.—Five men were drowned in lock No. 4, near Charleroi, in the Monongahela river at seven o'clock this morning. They were crossing the river in a ferryboat, which capsized. Perryman Huggins was among those drowned. The names of the others are unknown.

JOHN W. GATES RETIRES FROM ACTIVE BUSINESS

Word Comes From Southland That The Modern Financier Is Now Sati-ated.

Jackson, Miss., March 23.—John W. Gates has quit.

In an interview here the man who for several years has kept Wall street busy following his ventures into the arena of modern finance announced that he had retired from business. He offered no explanations and did not appear to think that his unexpected withdrawal from the affairs of the industrial and money world was a matter of more than passing interest.

For several months Mr. Gates has been in Mexico, where he had gone for a rest. While in the southern country he was afflicted with quinsy in an acute form, and his friends believe that the partial loss of the physical strength and energy that had made it possible for him to win a foremost place in the councils of the men who control Wall street had much to do with his decision to drop out.

Mr. Gates was asked for his opinion as to the investigation of the beef trust now in progress in Chicago. Mr. Gates smiled a deprecatory smile and said he really had not kept track of the matter at all.

"I dare say, however," he said, "that it will end like all such investigations, in nothing being done."

Seen to Succeed Father.

After a short stay in Chicago, which is Mr. Gates' immediate destination, he will go on to New York. When there it is expected he will turn over practical control of all his vast interests to his son, Charles G. Gates, who is the junior member of Harris, Gates & Co.

Wall street and the grain pit will miss Gates. Since the time when he made the American Steel and Wire company a part of the steel trust his has been a name to conjure with in the little narrow street that leads eastward from old Trinity, New York.

John W. Gates was born in Du Page county, Illinois, fifty-four years ago, and was graduated from the Northwestern college at Naperville, in 1872. The future millionaire became a clerk in a grocery store, then a grain clerk, and eventually drifted into the hardware business in St. Louis. His employers sent him into the Southwest to sell barbed wire to the farmers. Gates discovered there were millions in barbed wire, and he started a factory of his own.

Forms Steel Combine.
In 1890 he had become president of the Illinois Steel company and of the Consolidated Steel and Wire company. J. Pierpont Morgan conceived a steel trust, and Mr. Gates, who had had his properties absorbed by the American Steel and Wire company, was one of the chief factors in the formation of the combine. He cleared $5,000,000 out of the organization of American Steel and Wire and made a million more out of the absorption by the United States Steel corporation.

Mr. Gates has been noted as a poker player. He prefers to have the limit removed before the cards are dealt. For the last three years he and John A. Drake have been conspicuous in turf affairs.

CORPORATIONS AND PEOPLE WHO PAY HALF THE TAXES

In The City Of Janesville, Number 149... Forty-Eight Pay One-Third.

FACTS ABOUT LOCAL TAXES.

Population of Janesville—about 15,000.
Number of voters—about 2,800.
Valuation of the city—about $9,000,000.
Individuals and corporations who pay one-fourth of the total tax number 25.
48 pay one-third of total tax.
149 pay nearly one-half of total tax.
Rate of taxation for city, state and county purposes is $16.53 per thousand.
Beloit pays $18.40 on a $6,046,816 valuation.
Eau Claire pays $31.20 on a $7,617,566 valuation.
Racine pays $17.12 on a $16,000,000 valuation.
Marinette pays $25 on a $3,844,000 valuation.
Fond du Lac pays $14 on a $11,500,000 valuation.
Madison pays $10.50 on a $19,045,373 valuation.

There has been considerable discussion recently of the question as to whether or not the voting of bond issues for such a project as the proposed Racine street bridge, for instance, should rightly be restricted to the taxpayers of the city. It is not a practical question because the right of suffrage cannot be limited by property qualifications under a government such as ours. Nevertheless it is an ethical question and an interesting one. It is said that a majority of the taxpayers of St. Louis, to make use of a large illustration, were not in favor of having the world's exposition because they foresaw a deficit which they would have to meet. But the non-taxpaying voters who, with the minority of taxpayers, public spirited property holders, constituted the majority, wanted the big show and they proceeded to get it. From the ethical standpoint it would seem that great wrong is done the taxpaying class when an unnecessary burden which they are unwilling to bear is foisted upon them. Yet a city is made up of more than houses and lots and merchandise, and the people who own them. Public spirit and local pride not infrequently increase in proportion as property holdings increase. Without the balance of power that lies in the suffrage of those who have little or nothing in worldly goods but often a larger measure of the progressive spirit and local pride, it is conceivable that the selfishness of individual landlords, retrenching on repairs and improvements, might become the selfishness of a city and its undoing. All of which has little application to Janesville but offers the opportunity for a pretty theoretical argument.

Those Who Pay Taxes.
Those who pay taxes in Janesville number about 2,800. Many of them are women. Were it not for this latter fact one might conclude that most of the voters here are taxpayers. For the number who are entitled to the suffrage also totals about 2,800. The male non-taxpayer can vote on the disposition of public funds but the female taxpayer has no direct voice. And here is another opening for an argument that would be endless. The annual tax levy is made on the basis of a $9,000,000 valuation for the city. Of the 2,800 who contribute, less than 30 individuals and corporations contribute one-fourth. To be more exact 25 of the wealthiest pay their $16.53 per thousand city, state and county tax on a property valuation of $2,331,655. The forty-eight first named in the list appended pay on a total of $3,094,605, or one-third of the total, and from the 149 which comprise the list there is exacted nearly one-half of the total annual tribute. They pay on a total valuation of $4,473,003.

Largest Property Holders.
City Treasurer James A. Pathe has compiled the following list of corporations who pay taxes on a property valuation of $10,000 or more. As has been stated previously, there are just 149 of these in the Bower City. Mr. Pathe chose to make the valuation, rather than the actual tax, as paid any given year, the basis of the calculations because it may easily happen that the man who owns $5,000 worth of property is paying a larger tax at a particular time than the man who has $20,000 worth of property remote from sewer and road improvements that may be under way and occasion a special tax on the real estate benefited. In the long run, therefore, it is fairer to base the tax-paying statistics on valuations, such as hereinafter given:

WISCONSIN WILL GROW MANY ACRES

Stands Seventh in List of States Producing Sugar Beets—Michigan Grows Most.

In the last issue of the "American Sugar Industry and Beet Sugar Gazette," are some interesting figures showing the number of acres of beets that will be grown in America this year. The table is made out by states in this country and provinces in Canada and in the list of fourteen states Wisconsin stands seventh with an acreage of 24,000 or 4.6 per cent of the total for this country and exceeds the two provinces of Canada combined. All contracts for growing beets this year have not yet been closed and though the table therefore cannot be correct, it is as nearly accurate as possible. The table is appended.

JANESVILLE TEAM WAS VICTORIOUS

Junior Five of Baraboo Y. M. C. A. Defeated by Local Lads—Score, 42 to 27.

By a score of 42 to 27 the five of the junior department of the Janesville Y. M. C. A. defeated the junior team of the Baraboo association in the gymnasium of the building here yesterday afternoon. Though the out-of-town aggregation is probably one of the strongest in its class in the state and holds the honor of having defeated the Railroad Y. M. C. A. of Milwaukee five, the champions of the Cream city, and also the Waukesha team, and also having up till yesterday won all games this season, the contest was an easy one for the local lads. Moran played a stellar game for Baraboo, while Cunningham made the best basket, throwing record among the Janesville boys. The line-up was as follows:

Baraboo	Janesville
Hull	Dreyer
Moran	Cunningham
Adams	Strang
Brown	Richards

GAME IN HIGH SCHOOL GYMNASIUM FRIDAY IS EXPECTED TO BE CLOSE

If both the Waukesha and Janesville high school teams play in good form in the game here Friday evening a close and hard fought contest can be expected. The Waukesha team, though not having the same players that they had last year, have an exceptionally strong five, while the Janesville team has played some good ball this past season and will have the advantage of being in a familiar gymnasium. Interest is added to the game by the fact the same schools will meet in debate some time in April and a rivalry has sprung up during the past school year. The contest will close the season for the Janesville team and should victory be attained a very successful season would be ended fittingly.

STATE FAIR IS TO BE A HUMMER

GRANT U. FISHER RETURNS FROM MILWAUKEE MEETING

AND TELLS OF THE PROSPECTS

Largest Purses for Horse Races Offered in Three States Will Be Hung Up—Some Special Features.

With the renewal of the $15,000 guarantee fund by three of the business men's associations in Milwaukee and the $26,000 in the treasury, the Wisconsin State Fair association will be enabled to put up the largest purses for horse racing offered in three states. The total amount will be $27,000. Grant U. Fisher, of this city, member of the state board of agriculture, attended the meeting in Milwaukee yesterday and is much enthused over the prospects, and particularly pleased with the arrangement whereby the Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa state fair associations are to act together to secure special attractions for their respective exhibitions next fall. The plan proposed for the three fairs to bill the good attractions, making a circuit of three weeks for managers of the shows, all exhibitions being at state fairs. The plan, it is believed, will be to the mutual advantage of all.

Some of the Features.

An auto parade will be one of the new features of fair week if the committee, which has been given charge of arranging for it can get Milwaukee autoists to enter.

The National and State Livestock association, combining all the different breeds of cattle will offer between $2,000 and $4,000 in livestock awards, which will be duplicated by the state fair.

Best Ever Given.

"The Wisconsin State fair this year will be the biggest and best that has ever been given," says Mr. Fisher. "The special features mentioned are only a few of those under contemplation. Every indication points to unprecedented success for the enterprise this season."

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because its deceptive nature. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Rockford is to have a $20,000 depot, as one of the improvements brought to the city by the new Illinois, Iowa & Minnesota railroad, the Rockford Route.

As a recognition of his services for tagging a Baltimore & Ohio inaugural train March 5 and preventing a terrible catastrophe, Thomas Bahn, a coal digger of Shaner, will receive a medal of honor from the government. He was notified that President Roosevelt would bestow the medal soon. The railroad will also recognize Bahn's services.

The Alton railroad has decided to buy no more engines with compound cylinders, and will change all as rapidly as possible from compound to simple all the engines to be retained in service. After several years of experimenting, the officials of the Alton have reached the conclusion that the economy in water and fuel claimed for the compound engine does not equal the increased expense for maintenance. It is estimated that the compound engines require 20 per cent more attention from machinists than the simple type, while the

THE CAMPAIGN.

The spring campaign for 1905 is now in full blast. At the primaries yesterday Alexander Matheson was nominated for mayor on the republican ticket. The Gazette can not speak too highly of Mr. Matheson's ability as a city father and if the public care for a straight business-like administration they can do no better than elect Mr. Matheson. Mr. Matheson is a man of sterling worth and unimpeachable character. He has made enemies in the past by confining his handling of the city affairs in a purely business-like manner and adhering strictly to what he thought was right. In this he has the support of the thinking citizens of the city. In announcing his nomination the Gazette calls attention particularly to the fact that through Mr. Matheson's efforts as an alderman he has done much to bring the city finances upon a firm financial foundation. He is not a narrow man nor is he a bigoted partisan in municipal affairs. He represents the tax paying element of the city, the business element, the professional element and as their representative if elected will give the city a good administration that will do credit to the men who elected him. Associated with him on the republican ticket are others of like ilk. Men whom every citizen of Janesville can vote for in their respective wards and feel that they are selecting good men to handle the affairs of the municipality for the next two years. Arthur Badger was nominated for city clerk, Samuel E. Buckmaster school commissioner at large, and Charles W. Reeder for justice of the peace. In the first ward Eugene T. Fish for alderman, George Woodruff for supervisor and James Shearer for school commissioner were nominated. In the second ward John W. Peters will serve as the republican candidate for the long term and George O. Buchholz for the short term and Halvor Skavien for supervisor. In the third ward Carl Brookhaus for alderman, Joseph L. Bear for supervisor and Herbert J. Cunningham for school commissioner. In the fourth ward Harry Carter for alderman and William G. Palmer for supervisor will be the wheel horses to vote for and in the fifth Edward H. Peterson for alderman, Orville Morse for supervisor and Wilson Lane for school commissioner are men to tie to. From one end to the other the Gazette bespeaks the votes of the tax payers and citizens of Janesville for the republican ticket.

LUXURIES.

The occupation of the home market by American manufacturers is illustrated by some figures recently issued by the department of commerce and labor through its bureau of statistics, showing the importations into the United States of luxuries and other articles of voluntary use during the past fifteen years. Statistics just compiled show that the importations of luxuries and other articles of voluntary use amounted to 137 million dollars in the calendar year 1904, an increase of less than 8 millions over the importations of 1890. Importations under the group "Manufactures ready for consumption" amounted in 1904 to 158 millions, as against 130 millions in 1890, an increase of but 8 million dollars, while manufacturers' materials, including both raw and partially manufactured, increased from 283 millions in 1890 to 477 millions in 1904, a growth of practically 200 million dollars. Foodstuffs show no substantial change in the value of importations at the two periods named, being 261½ million dollars in 1890 and 262½ million in 1904. From the above figures it will be seen that the class of goods required by American manufacturers is the only group which has shown any marked increase during the past fifteen years. Diamonds form a notable exception to the general rule that importations of luxuries into the United States have remained practically stationary since 1890. During the past decade over 129 million dollars' worth of diamonds have been imported into the country, having increased from 1½ million dollars in value in 1890, the earliest year for which figures are available, to 23½ million in 1904. Of the latter sum 10 million dollars' value was imported in the uncut state, indicating that diamond cutting is becoming an important industry in our country. Jewelry and precious stones, other than diamonds, on the other hand, have fallen off from a total importation of $10,189,202 in 1890 to $5,548,224 in 1904. That this decrease in the importation of foreign manufactures of jewelry and other forms of gold and silver does not represent any reduction in home demand for such luxuries is shown by a reference to the census figures. The capital employed in the United States in the manufacture of jewelry has increased from 11 million dollars in 1890 to 22 millions in 1890 and 28 millions in 1900; and the value of the product from 22 million dollars in 1890 to 34½ millions in 1890 and 46½ millions in 1900, practically all of which is consumed in the home market.

Silk manufactures form another class of luxuries whose importations have decreased during the last fifteen years. In 1890 the value of silk manufactures imported into the United States was $1,085,990, while in the calendar year which ended with December last their value was but $1,030,522. Though France still leads in the share which she supplies of this total, having contributed 13½ million dollars' value in 1904, it is interesting to observe that Japan now holds practically equal rank with Germany. Each of these countries supplied about 5.4 million dollars' worth of silk manufactures for the markets of the United States; but Germany's share fell off 1.4 million dollars as compared with 1903, while Japan made a gain of 1.9 million dollars in the same period. American silk manufacturers are principally engaged in supplying the home market, as their exportations but slightly exceed a half million dollars annually. That their industry is a growing one is evidenced, however, by the fact that in 1870 there were but 36 establishments devoted to the manufacture of silk, their product was valued at but 12 million dollars, and the amount paid for wages was less than 2 million dollars. In 1880 the number of establishments was 352, the value of the product was 41 million dollars, and the amount paid in wages was 9 millions. From 1890 to 1900 the growth in number of establishments was small—472 in 1890 and 483 in 1900—reflecting in some degree the tendency toward concentration of industries; but the value of the product increased from $87,298,454, or $180,000 for each establishment in 1890, to $107,256,258, or $224,000 for each establishment, in 1900; while the continued development since 1900, is indicated by the large increase in importations of raw silk for use in manufacturing. In 1900 the importations of raw silk amounted to $2,099,818 pounds, valued at $31,790,531, while the quantity imported in 1904 was 16,578,005 pounds, valued at $54,379,276; the importations having thus doubled in quantity in the short period from 1900 to 1904.

Another class of luxuries whose importations have failed to increase substantially during the last fifteen years is wines, including champagne and still wines. In 1890 wines showed a total importation of 10 million dollars, and this figure is but slightly exceeded by the total for 1904, when the value of the imports was $10,334,432. Production of wine in the United States increased meantime from 24 million gallons in 1890 to 25½ millions in 1904.

Madison Democrat: Recent government reports show that 1,000,000 pounds of coffee are consumed in this country annually, to say nothing of the stuff panned off by Irving Matheson for mayor. It is a good slogan that should be taken up by every citizen who desires a good clean business-like administration of city affairs.

It cost Janesville tax payers twenty-two cents apiece for the eleven hundred odd votes Tuesday. Down in the black belt the colored votes are bought cheaper than that.

From present accounts the primary law was not as successful as it might have been. Fifteen hours' work for three dollars is rather small.

Captain Norcross has already become famous at the legislature. News item.—Janesville people knew his long ago hence his election to the assembly this past fall.

Vote for Matheson and be sure that the city's interests are safeguarded.

The republicans have nominated a good clean lot of candidates this spring.

PRESS COMMENT.

Racine Journal: It is related that the exclusiveness of certain New York churches that they have waiting lists just like the clubs.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The American people used up a billion pounds of coffee last year, in direct defiance of the laws of health as laid down at Battle Creek.

Chicago Tribune: It is explained that the president did not really dance a jig on that occasion, but that his feet involuntarily went through the motions.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Lincoln Stephens calls New Jersey "the traitor state of the union." Isn't it about time for dismal Link to surprise the public by saying something pleasant?

Rockford Register-Gazette: The German Crown Prince has set his chef to learn to cook the favorite dishes of his fiancée, the Duchess of Cecelia. Why don't he send the lady herself to a cooking school?

Milwaukee Daily News: European bankers that have been financing the war seem to think that it is about time for the Russians and Japanese to stop fighting and go to work for their creditors.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: Not until the pockets of the commuter begin to bulge with garden seed and the commuter's conversation fondly turns to thoughts of early onions will spring be here, no matter how previous the vernal equinox may be.

Evening Wisconsin: The legislature's refusal to make an appropriation for a formal representation of the state at the Portland fair will prevent the manufacturers of Wisconsin from making displays if they choose to club together for that purpose.

Des Moines Register-Leader: Another nihilist has been arrested for shooting at a high official. Russian nihilists should quit writing plotting letters which they leave lying around and take a few lessons at target practice.

Superior Telegram: Editor Harvey of Harper's publications says the newspapers have made no improvement in 20 years. According to that it must be that what was popularly supposed to be improvement was only improvement relatively as compared with the magazines.

Fargo Forum: The Towner County Democrat received a letter roasting people who patronize supply houses. The editor found the communication was written on letter heads that were printed by a big concern down east—and fired the article in the waste basket.

Eau Claire Leader: This legislature is going after graft in private business. The senate committee on manufactures decided to report for passage the Stout bill, which makes a misdemeanor to give an employee of any firm or private corporation any gratuity to influence his action in regard to the business of the firm to which the employee owes allegiance. It is also made a misdemeanor for any employee to accept gratuity.

Evening Wisconsin: The reported opposition of the officials of the Northwestern University at Chicago to the college fraternities is justified by the observation that the "frats" tend to suppress the democratic character of public educational institutions. It costs money to belong to the "frats," which are now taking their stand according to the ability of their members to "pay, pay, pay." The student who is struggling through the university on his own resources cannot afford to belong to the "frats." This is an advantage, but he is nevertheless sometimes deeply hurt by class distinctions.

Lafayette Morning Journal: It isn't much use to talk about the danger of wearing inflammable garments by women and children, for notwithstanding innumerable warnings such garments continue to be worn in the form of flannelette which burns almost like gunpowder. Surely the ways of inflammable flannelette could be speedily numbered. One need not among children who have been fatally injured by the ignition of this perilous fabric is simply appalling. The wearing of flannelette was again and again exposed children to the same risk as if their nightgowns were soaked in spirit. The flannelette catches fire as easily and burns with the same intense flame as alcohol, and the flames are not readily extinguished.

Racine Journal: Racine should now discard the village style of compelling mayors and councils to spend their time for nothing. There will be a proposition on the ballots in the coming election in addition to the park proposition which of course every citizen will vote for, to pay the mayor a salary of $1,200 per year and each alderman $150. These are not high figures and for city officials of a city the size of Racine, is certainly exceedingly cheap. There was a time when perhaps the mayors and aldermen were not so taxed as to official duties, but in these days they are kept very busy, especially the mayor. The duties of an alderman take up a good share of his time, much more than the average citizen would suppose, but he does not get a cent for his services, and his fellow citizens sponge on him just as freely as they do on the time of the mayor. The compensation named is small, it is not enough, but it is better than nothing and at least if granted, citizens may feel a measure of much more self respect than they can feel at present.

Madison Journal: A good many of us in this section remember when the Ringling Bros. were traveling in a few rickety wagons with "Yankee" (John) Robinson and got stuck in the mud near Belleville, one of their wagons tipping over in the words of "Bill" Nye quicker than the old proprietor could pronounce his own name. Remembering that incident it kind of forces home the conclusion that we must have been rather slow ourselves in the meantime, to read the following from a Baraboo paper: "John Ringling arrived this morning from Chicago and leaves at midnight for St. Paul, in his new private car, which came this morning from the Pullman works. The car is one of the finest and best equipped ever built by the Pullman company. Besides being handsomely built it has two electric light plants. The dynamo is driven by the car wheels and has storage batteries sufficient to light the car for a week while standing idle. While on the road the motors are busy recharging the batteries. Mr. Ringling says he will bring his new Pierce auto to the city during the summer. This machine has a record of a few seconds better than sixty miles an hour."

THE ROYAL LEAGUE TROUBLE IS QUIETING

Judge Kohlsaat Declines to Issue Order Against Officials.

Judge C. C. Kohlsaat refused to issue a temporary restraining order against the Royal League. William E. Hyde and Charles E. Piper, supreme archon and scribe of the order, yesterday afternoon. Attorney George Miller, for the two officials of the organization, asked that the bill against them charging the misappropriation of $34,000 be dismissed on the grounds that the process of the court had been abused by William R. Powers, who filed the original bill, had furnished a newspaper with the story and afterward sent marked copies throughout the membership of the order. Attorney Powers satisfied the court that notice of the restraining orders issued by Judge Kohlsaat when the bill was filed to retain the case in statu quo was not mentioned in the article.

The judge then refused to dismiss the bill on the allegations of Attorney Hyde, but when it was argued on the law points by Attorney H. T. Gilbert for Attorney Powers and F. C. Buehler, the complainant in the original bill, the judge denied the motion for a temporary injunction restraining the men from drawing salaries, handling money of the order or its books, and ordered the books now in the hands of the United States marshal to be returned at once.—Chicago Chronicle.

Reading, Pa., March 22.—That Berks County farmers live better than any other people in the country, has often been asserted. Edward W. He has just finished his fifth butchering. His grand total for the winter is five head of cattle, weighing 2,268 pounds, and twenty-nine hogs, weighing 7,746 pounds.

STATE BARBERS' BOARD MEETING

Was Held at the Office of Secretary Whittaker Last Evening.

Alexander Donham of Superior and Henry Helme of Reedsburg attended a meeting of the State Barbers' commission held in the office of Secretary M. H. Whittaker of this city last evening. The meeting was called for the purpose of outlining plans for the work of the coming year. While it is unlikely that the legislature will consent to an increase of the examination fee, it is deemed probable by the commission that certain amendments increasing the term of apprenticeship to two years and granting the commission the power to enforce its rulings by revoking licenses, will be made to the act which created the board.

TAKING THOUGHT.

Most all of the Home Health club readers will be somewhat surprised at the heading of this lecture and will exclaim: "Well, I wonder what Dr. Reeder is going to advise us to take next! It is so seldom that he advises us to 'take' anything that it seems out of place; but thought is a good medicine, and we will just give it a trial."

Well, it is rather an unusual prescription, but it is the one you have all been studying and learning about for some time. The Great Teacher cautioned his disciples to "Take no thought for the morrow," and that is what I try to impress upon you when I tell you not to worry. Christ could not have meant that people should not work and plant and sow, nor lay up grain in store for the winter, but He must have been trying to teach all mankind, through His instructions to them, that we should not worry about to-morrow. Do your whole duty to-day, and take no thought of evils which may never come to-morrow. To-day, right now, this present moment, is the only time of which you are certain, and the only time in which to do good, to live peaceably, to be happy; and if this present moment is filled with evil thoughts or forebodings, what assurance have you that you will ever be happy in this world or in the world to come? God did not make you for misery, but for joy and gladness, that He might have delight in you. He made everything in nature around you most beautiful and delightful, and you, by reason of the miserable anxiety and worry about this and that trifling thing, never see that beauty, but only the darkness and forebodings. Worry brings on all sorts of physical ills; that intense thinking of the symptoms of any disease will, in some people, bring on symptoms similar to that disease.

It is well known that intense, reactive brooding will frequently bring on species of insanity. People become monomaniacs on particular diseases, ailments or subjects. Thinking continually along one line must of necessity either exhaust the brain force in that direction, or else it will greatly strengthen that part of the brain at the expense of other parts; there is thereafter no desire or ability to think in other directions.

In such cases the prescription indicated by the title is the only one that will apply. "Take thought," and let that thought be of something as far removed from your present line of thought as it is possible to conceive of. Specific directions? Yes, I will give them; and in such a way that you can "take thought."

I will suppose that your imaginative disease is of the heart, although your physician has repeatedly told you that you have no organic heart trouble. Now, it is desired that the line of thought be changed; for you have dwelt so long upon the subject that whenever you have a slight attack of indigestion, and the heart palpitates a trifle, the cold sweat starts out upon your brow, and you think you are going to die sure.

Now, think about a heart, and how it may be affected by indigestion, for just two minutes. Hold your watch in your hand and do not let your thoughts wander at all—think of a heart, and at the end of that time stop; select the first object that chances to come to you for a subject.

For instance, I see before me at this instant a small pasteboard box, perhaps two inches wide, three inches long, one and a half inches deep; its color is pink. It has a dark blue line around the top and another at the edge of the lid; it is empty and the inside is white. I wonder where all the material of which it is made came from.

First a seed is dropped in the ground of a swamp away off, perhaps 2,000 miles away from me. It grows to a tree, is cut down, hauled to a pulp mill, ground into pulp, sent to a paper mill, and so on. I follow the process in my mind until, at the end of two minutes, I dislike to leave the subject, but I will. I wish to take thought and be able to control it.

I notice on the wall near me my son's bugle. The sight at once carries me back to the days of the Cuban war, and I think of its travels in the hands of one of our brave American boys; how it cheered the followers as its defiant blasts rang out over the battlefield. A deep and wide field for thought, and my two minutes are up very quickly.

I then seek for another object, and it is instantly found, but I will not go on with my own thoughts, but let you try it for yourself. Select not less than five subjects and think of each one exactly two minutes, and then stop. Don't let the mind go back to them, or any one of them, even for an instant, and you will soon gain such wonderful control over your thoughts that you can take up and master any subject in much less time than ever before. You will cease to worry about trifles, because you can stop thinking about them at your will or pleasure. You can, in a short time, so control your thoughts that you can, in the midst of work, and when very busy, stop aside, leave it all, lie down and in three minutes be sleeping quite peacefully. In 15 minutes more you can awaken and return to your work rested, refreshed, invigorated, and able to accomplish much more than you could have done had you not rested. Try it.

HIPPOCRATIC OATH.

I received recently from one of the readers of this paper a letter asking my advice in regard to the study of medicine. The study of medicine is very fascinating, and, to a person who has a love for mastering difficulties, a most fertile field. But in thinking over the request I wondered if the medical colleges of to-day would be so well patronized if the Hippocratic oath was administered to every applicant for admission.

The oath is a solemn engagement entered into in ancient times by young men about beginning the practice of medicine, and especially by the Aesclepiades. The formula itself has been ascribed to Hippocrates, and is certainly very ancient. It was as follows:

"I swear by Apollo, the physician, by Aesculapius, by Hygieia, Panacea, and all the gods and goddesses, that, according to my ability and judgment, I will keep this oath and stipulation: To reckon him who teaches me this art equally dear to me with my parents; to share my substance with him, and to relieve his necessities if required; to look upon his offspring upon the same footing as my own brothers, and to teach them this art, if they shall wish to learn it, without fee or stipulation; that by precept, lecture and every other mode of instruction, I will impart a knowledge of this art to my sons, to those of my teachers, and to disciples bound by a stipulation and oath, according to the law of medicine, but to no others. I will follow that system of regimen which, according to my best judgment, I consider best for my patients, and abstain from whatever is injurious. I will give no deadly medicine to anyone if asked, nor suggest any such counsel. Furthermore, I will not give to a woman an instrument to procure abortion. With purity and holiness I will pass my life and practice my art. I will not cut a person who is suffering with stone, but will leave this to be done by those who are practitioners of such work. Into whatever house I enter I will go for the advantage of the sick, and will abstain from every voluntary act of mischief and corruption; and, further, from the seductions of females or males, bond or free. Whatever in connection with my professional practice, or not in connection with it, I may see or hear, I will not divulge, holding that all such things should be kept secret. While I continue to keep this oath inviolate, may it be granted me to enjoy life and the practice of my art, respected always by all men; but should I break through and violate this oath, may the reverse be my lot."

This oath has not been administered to practitioners in modern times, though something equivalent to it was used in the middle ages, and especially in the school of Salerno; but every honorable and right-minded physician governs his private and professional life by its noble principles. It is the oldest and one of the best in the codes of medical ethics. Study it well, young man, before you decide to become a physician.

CLUB NOTES.

Hawkeye. Dr. David H. Reeder, LaPorte, Ind.—Dear Sir: How high can a person's temperature go? Our family doctor said he once doctored a lady whose temperature went as high as 120 degrees, and she died. My sister had the measles this winter, and her temperature was 108 degrees. I know of a doctor that said when a patient's temperature went up to 105 or 106 degrees, that he did not care to doctor them, as they could not get well. I have talked with a number of people regarding this subject, and the general verdict is that when the temperature gets to 107 degrees it is fatal every time. Please let me know what your opinion is on this subject. Yours truly, M.S.

Below 92 degrees and above 108 is nearly always fatal. The normal temperature is 98.4 degrees. I have found that the vegetable remedy in liquid form of which I have written you, is an excellent and efficient remedy to prevent the rapid rise in temperature.

BIBLE AS WRAPPING PAPER.

The Singular Manner of Circulating Holy Writ in a Turkish Town.

The work of sewing the Bible throughout the Turkish empire from Constantinople to Bagdad is beset with peculiar difficulties, says Everybody's Magazine. There is, it seems, a most ridiculous censorship of the Bible. It is a curious illustration of prejudice that the "seditious" word "Macedonia" occurring in the New Testament should excite suspicion and mistrust at the sublime port.

In Armenia, too—to give this group of Turkish vilayets its common name—the distribution of Bibles is especially difficult. And yet that it is eagerly read by the natives when it falls into their hands may be gathered from this story told by one of the Biblemen. A copy of the Word of God was given to a patient in the American hospital and by him carried to his home in a village. Here an Armenian priest took it from the man, and, having torn it to pieces, threw it into the street.

A grocer, seeing it lying there, picked it up and took it to his shop, where he began to use it as wrapping paper. So for a time olives and cheese, and other things sent forth from the store were wrapped in pages upon which were printed the "Words of Life." In this way one Bible was scattered about through that village, and was read by many whose interest was so far aroused that they began asking for more of the same book.

The result was that when the colporteur next came round, over 100 Bibles or portions of the Bible were sold in that village.

MORALES WANTS TO SETTLE DEBTS

BELGIUM DEMANDS PAYMENT

Insists on Sharing in Customs Receipts to the Extent of $25,883 Per Month Until Overdue Claim Is Liquidated.

San Domingo, March 23.—The news of the postponement by the United States senate of action on the treaty with Santo Domingo makes the situation here acute, and an internal uprising seems to be imminent, based on the cry that President Morales has been discredited in the United States.

President Morales states that he is prepared to put down any revolution, but that a more serious matter in his mind is foreign complications growing out of Belgium's demand, presented on March 21. Belgium wants the customs receipts of a port of Santo Domingo to the extent of $25,883 a month, according to a former agreement, on which no payment has been made for three years. No reply has been made to the Belgian demands.

Willing to Pay Debts.

This demand is construed as a direct result of the failure of the treaty between the United States and Santo Domingo. President Morales anticipates similar demands by other foreign powers, which he will be helpless to resist. He says he wants to pay all the republic's debts, but sees the ruin of the country with every port in the hands of a different foreign power and no revenue for the government. While he sees no light ahead, he has blind faith that "right will triumph."

In the course of an interview President Morales said:

"It is entirely possible that the United States may have to send an ultimatum here, on account of the Dominican government being unable, though not unwilling, to meet its obligations. It is utterly impossible for the government to pay the sums due foreign nations unless the United States can procure from foreign powers a postponement of their demands. Otherwise these demands will be pressed. I have no physical or moral force to resist them."

America Can Bring Peace.

"With the custom houses in the control of the United States the resources of the island will develop rapidly and all demands will be paid, with the result that the country will be educated to peace and permanent prosperity."

With two Dominican ports now in the hands of the United States and the failure of the treaty, Dominicans believe that a grab game by foreign powers will begin at once. An Italian cruiser was here a few days ago, but withdrew to Kingston. The American gunboat Castine is here with 150 men; the cruiser Chattanooga is at Samana bay, the Detroit is at Puerto Plata, and the Dixie is at Monte Christie. Rear Admiral Sigbee has gone to Guantanamo for a consultation with Rear Admiral Barker.

May Affect Monroe Doctrine.

With the seizure of Dominican ports by foreign powers it is argued here that the Monroe doctrine will be nullified as regards this republic. With the United States in possession of two ports it would not be logical, it is argued, to oppose the seizure of other ports by foreign powers. At the same time the only hope of President Morales is that in some way the United States can secure a postponement of seizure by European powers. No steps to this end have been initiated here.

President Morales has about 1,200 men under arms ready to crush the first internal uprising, but should the customs houses be seized he speedily would be without funds with which to pay his army, which would immediately desert.

HAS RUSSIA AN IDEA OF PEACE?

Confession of Poles.

The abandonment of the compulsory use of Russian in Polish in the schools of Poland, one of the main features of the government's Polish policy of the last thirty years, was recommended at a special meeting of the committee of ministers, a large majority, headed by President Witte, asking the minister of education, M. Glasov, to submit a plan whereby instruction may be conducted in Polish and the native language be made one of the principal subjects of study.

Disturbances at Kutno.

Warsaw, March 23.—Serious agrarian disturbances occurred at Kutno. It is reported that the military fired on peasant rioters and that several of the latter were killed or wounded. There were similar riots at Ostrow, in the same district.

Three of the soldiers wounded by the explosion of a bomb thrown from a window in Volsk street into the midst of a patrol are reported to be dying.

Despite the large orders on hand, the shares of local industrial companies have fallen heavily on the bourse, owing to reports that the war in the far east will continue.

Pygmies Versus Giants.

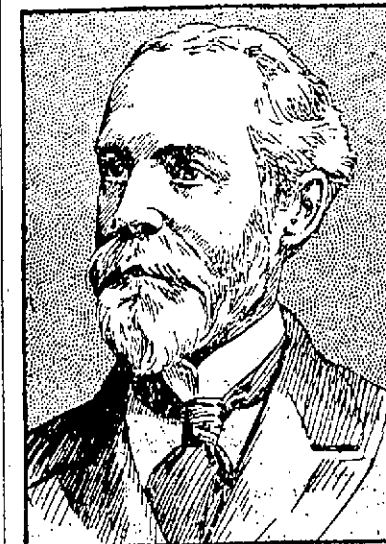

The war between Japan and Russia has often been likened to a war between pygmies and giants. When a Japanese soldier marches along with a Russian prisoner under guard, as portrayed in the accompanying drawing by Melton Prior of a scene in Haicheng, the slight has a suggestion of Gulliver in the power of the Lilliputians. In the picture the Russian captive is head and shoulders over the Japanese officer who is conveying him through the streets of the Manchurian city.

Whitelaw Reid.

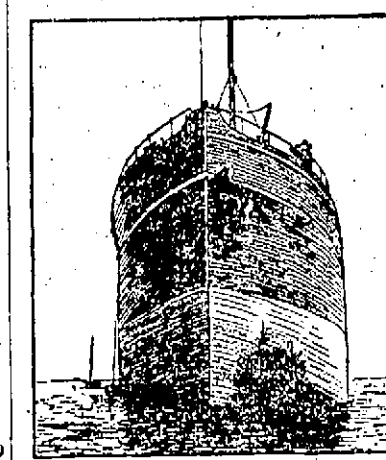

Whitelaw Reid, who will succeed Joseph H. Choate as ambassador of the United States at the court of St. James, is perhaps best known as editor of the newspaper founded by Horace Greeley, the New York Tribune. He was born in Xenia, O., in 1837, graduated from Miami university, Oxford, O., and began his journalistic career editing the Xenia (O.) News. He has been editor in chief and chief proprietor of the Tribune since 1872. In 1889 he was appointed minister to France and served until 1892. In that year he was nominated by the Republican party for vice president and ran on the ticket with Benjamin Harrison.

Damaged by a Mine.

Now and then the mines set by warring nations to blow up vessels of war encounter merchant ships of neutral nations and do unintended damage. This happened recently when the Chinese merchant vessel Keshing, bound from Chefoo to Shanghai, struck a mine at midnight while off the Shanghai promontory. The hole which the explosion made in the bow of the vessel measured 10 by 12 feet.

Japan Soldier on March.

The Japanese soldier on the march makes a queer figure. He carries besides his rifle and ammunition various articles of apparel and utensils for the preparation and eating of food. Consplenious on his back is an extra pair of shoes, one under each arm. The Japanese soldier is almost as wiry and tireless as the American Indian.

HEAD-ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO TEMPERAMENTS!

Every hour, all over the city—in homes, in factories, in stores, in offices—collisions are occurring between incompatible human temperaments. The housewife is conservative, likes to keep her china and furniture intact; the servant is iconoclastic—a "collision between temperament" occurs, and a "want ad." tells those girls who can read that a servant is wanted at a certain home.

The factory-foreman, always opposed to square pegs in round holes, finds that one of his workmen is a mis-fit. Again a temperament collision. And a workman who is a "round peg" finds a want ad. that offers a better job for him than his present one; and the other man advertises for a job where square pegs are needed.

A store-manager finds that a certain clerk has not an ounce of salesmanship in his make-up. Collision again.

A want ad. brings another clerk to the store; and finds a job for the ex-clerk where salesmanship is not a requisite.

In the office the stenographer got to "running the business."

Boss was a "brute," and believed he could manage things himself.

Simply another Collision Between Temperaments. Want ad. found a "boss" for the young lady who rather liked to be managed; and found a stenographer for the old "boss" who didn't "grate on his nerves."

The lease had been executed for a period of ninety-nine years and had been lost. Mrs. Tilt will take legal steps to claim the town land.

Easily Explained.

"Why, Mary, how did you break that pretty plate?" exclaimed the mother of a pretty four-year-old to her daughter. "Why, I'll show you, mamma, it was just like this," and taking up another bit of china from the table she gave a practical demonstration by letting it dash into a thousand pieces on the hardwood floor of the dining room.
